Charles Johnstone: Cibachromes

August 17th – September 28th, 2018

Crotona Park Pool, Bronx, 2011

Church of God, Manhattan, 2011

Joseph Bellows Gallery is pleased to announce its upcoming exhibition, Charles Johnstone: Cibachromes. This solo exhibition will feature key selections from Johnstone's portfolios: Brooklyn Corrugated Iron Fences, 34 Basketball Courts, A Few Empty Pools, Some New York Handball Courts, and New York Storefront Churches printed in the luminous Cibachrome color process. The exhibition will open August 17th and continue through September 28th, 2018. A reception will be held on September 15th.

Johnstone's portfolios and subsequent books imply, as does his objective recording of the subject, a linkage to artists that have preceded him, specifically Edward Ruscha and the photographers of the New Topographic era. The artist works as a localist, surveying with his camera places within the city he has called home his entire life, steadily making sets, edited collections of urban environments.

Johnstone has had numerous solo exhibitions both in this country and abroad. This modest survey exhibition marks the artist second solo exhibitions at Joseph Bellows Gallery. Notable group exhibitions include: Ed Ruscha Books and Co. at both the Museum Brandhorts, Munich Germany and Gagosian Gallery, New York and American Photography from Berenice Abbott to Alec Soth. His photographs have been featured in Photograph, The New Yorker, and on ArtDaily.

Running concurrently in the gallery with Charles Johnstone: Cibachromes, will be Summer Selections featuring the photographs of: Lewis Baltz, Thomas Barrow, Judy Fiskin, Roger Minick, Grant Mudford, Stephen A. Scheer, John Schott, Sage Sohler, Jack D. Teemer Jr., Roger Vail, and others.
